

Tim's Double Trouble

by Cesar

Chapter 1

Tim was always up to mischief. One day at school, he decided to throw spitballs at the students in his class. Tim did this because he wanted attention from a girl called Sarah Monroe. His pranks always got her to laugh or giggle.

He loved causing food fights. Usually, the whole cafeteria would participate in his mischief, but this time was different. Everybody ignored him as he threw food around the room. No one seemed to want to get in trouble that day, because the following day they were going on a field trip, and the students did not want to miss it. When the principal made a surprise visit to the cafeteria, he was the only one that got in trouble. He felt guilty because Sarah didn't laugh this time, and he missed the field trip.

After this happened, Tim started behaving more often. He didn't realize it, but his new behavior was getting him closer to Sarah. Sarah does not like people that break the rules and soon, they became really good friends.

The prank war

When Tim and Sarah went to class, the teacher was introducing a new student named Karl. He went to sit in front of Tim. Tim introduced himself to Karl and asked him to hang out with him and they did. So, Karl and Tim were playing basketball when Sarah and Amy came along. When they arrived, Karl started to act differently, and Tim noticed. He thought Karl liked Sarah, and not as a friend. He got a little jealous, So the next day he had a prank ready. When Karl entered the restroom, he had milk and feathers then dumped it on him. Karl got mad and wanted revenge so the next day he got revenge like he wanted then they kept pranking each other. When one day Karl asked Tim why he pranked him in the first place Tim responded and said that he thought that he liked Sarah. That's when Karl said that he liked Amy. Then they realized they were pranking each other for no reason. They did the only thing they could think of so they both walked up to Sarah and Amy. And nervously asked them on a double date. They crossed their fingers hoping they would say yes. They said yes and that it would on Monday! Two days later, all 4 of them were getting ready and met up at bob's restaurant to go on that double date.

The END