By: Kaily

Michael is 18 and wanted to be a famous singer but he couldn't because he didn't know how to sing. So, Michael went to a music school. He was having trouble getting used to the music school and didn't have friends. He was tired, but he knew that he wouldn't reach his dream unless he kept working at it.

With time, he started to get better at the music, but he still didn't have friends. So, Michael came up to a group of people said if they could be friends. Michael was so scared that they would say no, but guess what? They said yes! He was so happy that he had friends now.

The day he had been waiting for finally came: the graduation! He thought that he did not pass, but he did! He passed! He went up on the stage and he started singing. Everybody started singing along with him. When he finished, everybody clapped for him. He was so proud of himself! Michael started a YouTube channel and people loved him and his music. Before you know it, his album was on top of the music chart, and he got to do everything with new his friends by his side. Now you know him as Michael Jackson.
